JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Nominee for Bureau of Mines Director was turned down once for job; FBI charge of Plagiarism in doctorate thesis vigorously denied; Lucas feared too soft in enforcing new health and safety rules.

Hearnes' Control Defined

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth held today the governor of Missouri can neither veto nor reduce an appropriation for public schools.

But the governor can "control by allotment or other means and thereby reduce the expenditure of funds below their appropriations only when the actual revenues are less than the revenue estimates upon which the appropriations are based."

The legal opinion was supplied at the request of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who has expressed fear the legislature will appropriate more money than the ste expects to collect.

Danforth said he was not in today's opinion answering the governor's question about whether a fourth allotment can be made this month in order to give the schools the $234 million in state aid they were promised for this fiscal year. It would amount to about $8 million.

Danforth said that question will be answered later in a separate opinion.

The opinion today did say the governor could control appropriations when actual revenues are less than the revenues estimated.

It went further to say that estimated revenues would be the total in the appropriation bills as passed by the legislature.

At one point in the 26-page opinion, Danforth said:

"... assuming that the legislature is acting in compliance with the constitutional provisions, we would then conclude that the total amount of appropriations as passed by the legislature, unless specifically stated in an appropriation act, represents the estimated revenue."

The opinion, written by Gene E. Voigts, first assistant attorney general and approved by Danforth, considered at length the debates before the 1943 constitutional convention on the point of aid to public schools.

Those debaes made it clear, the opinion said, that the intent of the constitutional convention was to bar the governor from reducing an appropriation for free public schools or vetoing it.

The opinion also considered the 1953 controversy when the late Gov. Phil M. Donnelly vetoed a separate bill which sought to transfer $9,250,000 from the old postwar reserve fund into the state school moneys fund.

The Supreme Court ruled that the governor vetoed a separate bill and the only legislative recourse would be to override the veto. But by that time the legislature was no longer in session.

Lebanese Tanks War With Israeli

BEIRUT — (AP)

Lebanese tanks engaged the Israeli forces north of the village of Yaroun, just inside the frontier, and clashes were continuing, said a communique.

Bint Jbeil is in the central sector of the frontier, about 18 miles from the Mediterranean. Together with three nearby villages, it was blasted by Israeli artillery last Friday as a reprisal for the Arab guerrilla ambush of an Israeli school bus which killed eight children and three adults.

Twenty Lebanese were killed and 40 wounded in Friday's bombardment and several thousand civilians fled the area.

The Lebanese communique reported today's attack began at 12:45 p.m., and termed it a "new aggression against Lebanon."

Radio programs were interrupted to broadcast news of the Israeli assault.

Lack of Funds Closes Day Care Center

Low - income mothers have been required to quit jobs because operations of the child day - care center were shut down Friday as a result of depletion of federal funds that were cut off earlier this month.

Mrs. Keith Collins, chairman of a volunteer worker's committee, was scheduled to meet with Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation and Head Start personnel at Portageville today to explore the possibility of getting money through another federal source. The program was funded through Head Start.

The center has been in operation since February of 1969. It served mothers who either worked or attended a vocational training school.

A meeting of a citizens advisory council will be called for Tuesday night by Chairman Marshall Craig. There have been numerous citizens who have indicated willingness to support the center with cash contributions at least through the summer. They hope federal funding will be renewed this fall.

The center, located at Lincoln School is staffed by four paid personnel. Nearly 90 volunteer workers have assisted since the center was begun. Paid personnel were not paid for last week's work.

"This is a case of a community helping itself," Mrs. Collins said.

Cervantes to Fight Life Magazine 'Irresponsibility'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mayor A. J. Cervantes, accused in a Life magazine article of having ties with the city's underworld, promised Sunday night he will fight the magazine's "flagrant irresponsibility in the public area before the people."

"Legal remedies have already been discussed and will be discussed further," said Cervantes. Life alleged he has "business and personal ties with gangsters that operate in his city."

"I know that the people of St. Louis who elected me to lead their city will not put up with this vicious, unfair attack," Cervantes said. "I am confident they will stand with me in this fight."

Cervantes said he was "amazed, outraged and angered" by the article in this week's edition of Life.

"It represents the lowest kind of tactics that a magazine or a reporter can be gility of," he charged.

Denny Walsh, a former reporter for the St. Louis GlobeDemocrat and a Pulitzer Prize winner, wrote the article.

"Life's year-long investigation shows that Mayor Cervantes himself has business and personal ties with the gangsters that operate in his city," the article said.

Names as Cervantes, links with the underworld were Morris Shenker, head of the city's Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement, and Anthony F. "Tony" Sansone, his campaign manager.

The article called Shenker, chief counsel for imprisoned Teamsters leader James R. Hoffa, "the foremost lawyer for the mob in the U.S."

Sansone, the article said, serves as "the mayor's liaison with the two mobs that run the St. Louis underworld."

"I have never in my life engaged or associated as a partner with anyone in an unlawful business," Shenker said Sunday. "I have not defended one of those so called 'big boys' in 10 years, and I have never been in their counsel, nor would I permit them to tell me anything that did not relate to their particular case."

Cervantes called the Crime Commission which Shenker heads "just an advisory body," adding, "It has no power to help or hurt organized crime. Only the St. Louis metropolitan Police Department enforces the law of St. Louis.

"The magazine's statement that organized crime flouishes in St. Louis is a ruthless, unfair and untrue slap at our community and our police department," he said.

"The story is a series of nontruths, half-truths, innuendoes and careful omissions — irresponsible and dirty journalism at its worst."

Asked about the Cervantes reply to the article, a spokesman for Life said: "We'll let the magazine story speak for itself."

Network of North County Towns Explored

BENTON — Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today he is exploring the possibility of establishing a full- time telephone and radio communications network among communities in the northern end of Scott County.

The sheriff said Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is constructing lines and equipment that will place towns of Oran, Chaffee and Scott City, on direct non- long distance phone service.

Sheriff Dennis said it may be feasible for the towns to pay par of cost that would be incurred should a dispatcher be on duty around the clock.

Hijacked Jet with 102 Aboard Lands in Havana

MIAMI (AP) — A Delta Air Lines jet with 96 passengers and a crew of six, hijacked in flight from Atlanta to Miami, landed in Havana at 8:23 a.m. today.

On the runways of Jose Marti Airport, the U.S. airliner joined a Mexican plane with 79 persons aboard diverted by an unknown number of hijackers en route from the resort island of Cozumel to the Yucatan capital of Merida.

The pilot of the Delta flight radioed the Atlanta tower shortly after takeoff from there at 6:45 a.m. that the plane had been commandeered and was on its way to Cuba. The flight originated in Chicago and had made a stop at Louisville.

Seventy-two passengers and seven crewmen were aboard the other aircraft owned by the airline Mexicana de Aviacion. It was not known whether any foreigners were on the flight.

THREE WHO HAVE LIVED IN SAIGON, South Vietnam, met in Sikeston Sunday, to discuss conditions in the war torn country. Two of the visitors are friends of the Art Wallhausen family at Charleston where they spent the weekend. They came to Sikeston Sunday to hear an American chaplain, who spent a year in South Vietnam. They are from left, the Rev. David Heino. returned missionary and public relations director at St. Louis Concordia Seminary; Miss Gilberte B. Noel, Saigon, medical secretary; Mrs. Art Wallhausen, Sr., Charleston; and George M. Pary, Las Vegas, Nev., project engineer in Saigon.

Three Discuss Their Lives in Saigon

It was by chance that three who have lived in Saigon, South Vietnam, met Sunday to renew acquaintence and review conditions of this country that is much in the news today.

Two of the visitors were George M. Pary, a project engineer from Las Vegar, Nev., and Miss Gilberte B. Noel, who is a medical secretary for a French doctor in Saigon.

The two were friends of the late Arthur Wallhausen Sr., and Mrs. Wallhausen, Sr., at Charleston.

Mrs. Wallhausen invited her guests to hear the Rev. David Heino, a St. Louis chaplain Sunday, preach at Concordia Lutheran church. They remained for the church luncheon.

Pary was project manager for a recently constructed seaport at Saigon. He will return there in two weeks to begin construction of 20 other smaller seaports. He has been visiting relatives in Las Vegas.

Miss Noel was born in Hanoi, North Vietnam. Her family was forced to flee to the south in 1954, and leave all their possessions. Her father is an engineer in South Vietnam.

Heavy Fighting 10 Miles Inside Cambodian Border

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers were reported engaged in heavy fighting today along Highway 7 east of the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Memot, about 10 miles inside the border.

For a while, enemy gunners drove back American helicopters trying to lift out wounded paratroopers, field reports said, but finally they were evacuated.

Reports were sketchy, but one officer said the paratroopers suffered light to moderate casualties in the fight that began Sunday and gradually built up today.

There was no immediate count of enemy losses.

The fighti,n the Fishhook region north of Saigon, field reports seid.

The reports said the fighting began tapering off at nightfall.

The size of the North Vietnamese force was not immediately known.

Memot lies 20 miles to the east of the large rubber plantation of Chup, seized late Saturday by a South Vietnamese task force who took over from the French staff.

In the Vietnamese fighting, U.S. B52 bombers attacked a new North Vietnamese buildup in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

U.S. Bombers Attack Viet Cong Buildup in Provinces

SAIGON (AP) — While thousands of allied troops hunted for more enemy troops and supplies in Cambodia today, U.S. B52 bombers attacked a new North Vietnamese buildup in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

About 60 of the big Stratofortresses dropped nearly 2,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese base camps, bunkers and staging areas along the Demilitarized Zone and more than 11 miles to the south below Da Nang.

South Vietnamese troops on a sweep just south of the DMZ caught up with a North Vietnamese force in one area where the B52s hit.

Backed by artillery and fighter-bomber strikes, the South Vietnamese infantrymen reported 45 North Vietnamese soldiers killed and 17 weapons captured. They said four government troops were killed and 16 wounded.

Informed sources said North Vietnamese troops were moving across the DMZ and through Laos to take up positions in the rolling hills.

While the size of the buildup was uncertain, sources said it appeared similar to past troop concentrations that have been dealt with mainly by air attacks because allied forces are spread so thinly in the northernmost parts of South Vietnam.

"I don't see the North Vietnamese doing anything different from what they've done before," said one source. "They come in from across the DMZ and Laos from time to time. The idea is when there are enough of them in there to make a good target, we hit them."

Three American soldiers were killed and 31 wounded in rocket and mortar attacks Sunday on targets that included the headquarters of the U.S. 5th Marine Regiment southwest of Da Nang, an artillery base of the 101st Airborne Division between the A Shau valley and Hue and a battery of the 108th Field Artillery Group just south of the DMZ.

The U.S. Command reported that American battlefield deaths in 25 days of operations in Cambodia had passed the 200 mark, and the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands said about 9,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been killed.

"U.S. casualties in all Cambodian operations are 201 killed and 756 wounded," said a U.S. communique.

In Cambodia Sunday night, North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. air cavalrymen about 100 miles north of Saigon, killing five Americans and wounding eight in 20 minutes. Enemy losses were not known.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the Saigon troops had taken control of the Chup rubber plantation, the biggest in Indochina, and were two to three miles to the east and southeast of Kompong Cham.

The South Vietnamese task force is driving northward just west of Tonle Bet in pursuit of elements of the Viet Cong's 272nd regiment.

A force of Cambodian mercenaries hired and trained by the U.S. Special Forces in South Vietnam smashed the last enemy strongpoints in Tonle Bet, a ferry crossing on the Mekong River 74 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Appropriation Committee To Finish Budget

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee plans to finish its surgery late this week on the unbalanced budget approved by the House.

Committee members came back to work today prepared to stay all week if necessary to complete the job of cutting appropriations back to the revenue expected in the 1970-71 fiscal year.

A report of lagging state collections in May complicated the problem.

The rest of the Senate, meanwhile, concentrated on committee hearings on other bills passed by the House, some of them containing potential controversy.

One come up at a committee hearing Tuesday on a bill to extend full search and seizure power to the Highway Patrol. It slipped through the House for the first time in years but ran into charges the result would be creation of a "state gestapo"—a charge that is expected to be renewed in the Senate.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes recommended the proposal to meet the modern problems of criminal mobility.

He also urged that the legislature set up a special committee to study extension of the merit system to all state agencies. Such a plan was approved by the House, which has sidetracked bills to extend the merit plan to the Public Service Commission and the Liquor Control Division.

Tuesday a Senate committee will hear an alternate proposal sponsored by the majority and minority leaders. It would authorize the "little Hoover" commission on government reorganization to make the study.

The commission already has stated a broad personnel study under the direction of Prof. Paul Steinbicker, who helped set up Missouri's present merit system and later served as chairman of the personnel advisory board which runs it.

While the Senate works this week, the House remains in recess until June 1. That will leave just two weeks to complete work on appropriations and other bills before the special session has to adjourn June 14.

Increase In Debt Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, citing lower-than-expected tax collections, asked Congress today to raise the ceiling on government borrowing by $18 billion.

This would increase the debt ceilinv from the present $377 billion to $395 billion. Without congressional action, the ceiling would automatically drop July 1 to $365 billion.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy, presenting the request to the House Ways and Means Committee, attributed the expected deficits in the budget for this year and the next largely to smaller revenues than had been expected.

"Apart from the effect of proposed legislation, revenues have been reduced by $3 billion in the current year and $1.1 billion in fiscal 1971, in both cases largely reflecting lower estimates of corporate profit tax receipts," Kennedy said.

"This slippage, in part at least, appears to reflect a lower than anticipated level of corporate profit during the first part of this calendar year. It does not reflect any relaxation of our continuing efforts to control inflation."

Agnew Calls for World Unity in Sunday Speech

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Nations of the world should cooperate this decade "to make life and health one birthright of all children," Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Sunday.

In a speech to the 10th International Cancer Congress, Agnew proposed that the next ten years be the Decade Against Disease.

"By rising above narrow selfinterest," Agnew said, "let us join together in a determined venture to make life and health one birthright of all children born from this day on regardless of nationality, race or religious beliefs."

Five Arrests

Police reported three were charged with careless driving during the weekend. They are William Johnson Jr., Detroit, Karen Baugus, 308 Broadway, and Floyd Porter III, 630 Vernon.

Billy W. Watson, 205 South Handy, and Danny Corbin, East Prairie, were charged with peace disturbance.

Raymond Creasy, Portagevile, was charged with indecent exposure.

Haldman Says Nixon Unisolated

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Presidential Assistant H.R. Haldeman, replying to criticism that President Nixon didn't consult with his advisers before ordering U.S. troops into Cambodia, says Nixon seeks out advice more often than any other recent president.

The current criticism that Nixon often acts in isolation is merely the latest of the liberal news media's attempts to undermine the President's standing, Haldeman says.

"I am completely convinced that President Nixon is the most unisolated president in recent times," Haldeman said Saturday night at the University of California at Los Angeles, where he accepted the Alumnus of the Year award.

Wants End To Inflation

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., called Saturday night for use of all White House powers — including wage, price and credit controls if necessary to end "rampant inflation."

"Government intervention in the market place is pervasive and is not always bad," Symington said at a Clayton Township recognition dinner. "In fact we have deliberately passed many laws to protect labor from exploitation, to protect industry from price discrimination. ...

"Somehow, however, we seem to have adopted the theory that the government has to be a passive onlooker to all price and wage decisions even though indirectly through fiscal, monetary and regulatory actions we set the conditions."

Worldwide commitments have not only placed a burden on the American taxpayer, Symington said, but have also caused the White House to neglect pressing economic and social needs at home.

"I do not believe the American people will tolerate much longer the continuation of policies which could soon lead us to economic and financial ruin under the mantle of 'fulfilling our international obligations"' he said.

AVOID PEOPLE PICKLE

By way of celebrating "pickle week" - which, in case you hadn't heard, runs from May 21 to 30 - all of the pickle packers are promoting the theme, "Keep our Country Out of a People Pickle," which isn't a bad idea, seeing as how most people get into a pickle every now and then - some more than others. The slogan is to remind us that many of the "pickles" we find ourselves in today are the result of our own making. Air pollution, racial strife, increasing crime, wars, riots, etc., are not necessarily inevitable consequences of men's existence on this planet. Most of these dilemmas (or pickles) can be solved by each individual who has the power to choose just what quality of life he wishes to have.

Hence the pickle packers are calling for a "moratorium on people polemics" during the 10- day period. They are encouraging everyong to "stop practicing the art of controversy and start perfecting the art of cooperation and communication with their fellow men."

As one pickle week spokesman pointed out, the benign little pickle has set an example for the world to follow for some 4,003 years. Pickles are neither inclined to the right or to the left- they usually go right to the middle.

SPEAKING FROMEXPERIENCE

While visiting with a local businessman the other day, he expressed the opinion that it's amazing how many men secretly look forward to the day when they'll have fewer problems.

It's a common day - dream -- and perhaps we all share it to some extent-- but it seldom materializes. The further up the ladder you get, the tougher the problems become. That's why you get paid more for handling them.

It's not easy to hold down a management job-- to be a foreman, supervisor, or manager. We don't recommend it to anyone who prefers peace and quiet, likes to keep regular hours, or dislikes problems.

Some men who advance to management positions think they'll have clear sailing once they square away a few details. As soon as they get things organized, they expect to sit back and enjoy the prestige of their hard won positions.

It would be nice if life were that easy. No management job will ever be problem free. Whenever you do settle a problem, two new ones will usually crop up to take its place. When the problems cease, so does the job.

It takes some men the better part of their careers to find this out. Some never really get the message. They like the rewards and power of being a "boss," but don't want the responsibilities - the never- ending troubles, frustrations, difficulties and irritations. What they fail to realize is that these problems are the reason why they got a better job in the first place.

Capable men in management jobs don't begrudge having problems; they take them on as a chance to show what they can do. They realize thatthe bigger the job, the more difficult, trying and demanding it's bound to be.

This advice will help any young man who wants to get ahead when he starts to work in a business -- if he is really interested in the unvarnished facts not found in school books.

Consumer welfare is a new and popular fad in government. It should be neither new nor a fad, since 100 per cent of the population are consumers.

Consumer welfare is not new to good advertising. Local retail advertising, by necessity, must take the welfare of the consumer into consiceration. It could not otherwise succeed.

The local newspaper advertiser can not afford to challenge the intelligence of the consumer. It is a written and quickly available record of the word of a friend and neighbor.

Every newspaper advertiser is familiar with the customer who brings an advertisement clipped from the local paper when he comes to make a specific purchase. That ccustomer believes what is printed. If the retailer can not back his claims, he may lose a customer and a friend forever.

Of course, the retailer can not always anticipate the quality of content in packaged goods. Like the consumer, he depends upon the claims of national advertising. When he recognizes deception on the part of a manufacturer or distributor he warns his customers and is likely to drop the unsatisfactory line of goods from his orders.

The most frequent references to misleading advertising deals with the claims of manufacturers who attempt to sell very similar mass consumed products such as aspirin, cosmetics, and laundry goods by televised gimmicks.

Gimmicks, however can not stand up under the cold hard examination of the newspaper reader.

In a few years, many motorists in the Chicao area may have the answer to one of their longest- standing driving dreams – an expressway that will allow them to travel the 35 long, now- congested miles between the city's north and south sides with ease.

Plans have been approved for what will be called the Crosstown Expressway. These plans constitute somewhat of a milestone in urban highway planning and design.

The expressway will consist of eight traffic lanes in a split- alignment arrangement, with four lanes in each direction. These four- lane roadways will be located four block apart.

This will permit the development of neighborhood improvements, will provide for park and recreation areas, and will include the design of a public transit system as part of the expressway.

The split alignment offers an opportunity to locate industry between the two four- lane roadways, and a tree-lined corridor could be created to separate industry from residential areas. To make this effective, certain scattered business and residential areas would have to be relocated.

The Crosstown Expressway will also utilize some of the most advanced design techniques in the areas of signing, pavement markings, entrance and exit ramps and traffic control.

One example is symbol signs, which use pictures and standard designs to convey meanings to drivers-- in less time and with less chance of misunderstanding than is possible with words.

Put together by a team of highway traffic and safety engineers, architects, city planners, sociologists and economists, the expressway plan also calls for community facilities and schools.

Ideally, say the planners, the wide corridor design will enable the community to gradually increase its industrial and commercial development at select points. It also allows for regrouping of stores into shopping and retail centers, which would eliminate the characteristic "strip" that dominates too many city (and suburban) main streets.

On paper, at least, Chicago's Crosstown Expressway appears the most effective blend to date of driving functionality and social and aesthetic value.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

My, aren't we getting literate! Nearly three new books are published every hour now in the United States. Last year some 22,000 new titles appeared, and between 7,000 and 8,000 revised editions of older books were printed. Somebody must have taught Johnny how to read after all.

It isn't always easy for either you or your doctor to tell that you've had a heart attack. One study of myocardial infarctions estimated that 20 per cent go undiagnosed at the time of attack. Also revealed: sudden death from coronaries occurs five times as frequently in smokers as in nonsmokers.

Ever wonder why a full moon doesn't warm you up like the sun does? This is because even then the moon reflects only seven per cent of the sunlight that falls upon it.

Medical researchers pay a price for their inquiries in the fight against disease. A worldwide study of 5,000 laboratories found that since 1949 at least 132 of their workers had died and 3,225 suffered infectious maladies acquired as a direct result of their investigations of dangerous bacteria and viruses.

Despite the fact that many motorists seem unable to distinguish between traffic lights, most people are extraordinary sensitive to color. Scientists at the National Bureau of Standards have found that under ideal conditions the human eye can distinguish between 10 million color shades and tints.

Incidentally, if you don't like to read, better not become a scientist or engineer. They now have to spend an average of 10 hours a week reading in order to escape "professional obselescence."

Many industrial firms have installed health departments to keep their employes fit—not for philanthropic reasons but because it is a good company investment. It costs from $3,000 to $20,000 to replace a lost worker —a worker who might be kept on the job by a proper diseasescreening program.

Those inventive Orientals: The Japanese have come up with a new device for stopping ships quickly—underwater parachutes. In a recent test four of the chutes, measuring 10 feet when opened, halted a 50,000-ton ore carrer going 10.5 knots in less than half a mile. It would have taken a mile to stop the vessel by the conventional method of simply reversing its propellors.

A man was charged with using counterfiet money to pay a bill. At his hearing, the defendant pleaded that he didn't know the money was phony. Pressed for proof, he blurted, "Because I stole it. Would I be stealing money if I knew it was counterfeit?"

That made good sense to thejudge, so he tossed out the counterfeit charge. But he substituted a new charge: theft.

"Sure, I stole it," the defendant conceded amiably. "But counterfeit money has no legal value. Since when is it a crime to steal nothing?"

No one could find any flaws in his logic, so the man went free. All of which shows that two wrongs – if the breaks are with you – can make a right.

NOT TOO MANY MEN FOLLOW THE TV STARS

For a while in the past year, it appeared that leading television personalities would also become fashion leaders, following the footsteps of such well groomed gents as Adolph Menjou, Fred Astaire and Cary Grant – to name just a few. But their current track record does not warrant any real confidence that they will make the grade. They were among the first to swing to turtlenecks with formalwear – which proved to be unappealing to the huge majority of American men. They were also the leading exponents of the Nehru jacket – which bombed after a short run. We'll withhold judgement on the qualifications of TV men as fashion leaders, and hope that their next efforts will be along the lines of sound fashion rather than fad.

Three weeks later a frantic Satan called Peter, begging that he take the women back.

"But I'm still having housing troubles," St. Peter replied.

"Troubles?You don't know what trouble is!" Satan roared. "With their cake bakes, rummage sales and bazaars, do you know those women are only $30 short of air conditioning this place?"

There's Sales Taxes And No Sales Taxes

In Connecticut, notes Tax Foundation, Inc., if you buy a draft horse you don't have to pay the state's 5 per cent sales tax.

But that's not all. If you are a speculative home builder in Indiana, you are exempt from paying a 2 per cent state sales tax on the furnishings you put in your model single- family home.

Again, if you are a Choctaw Indian from Mississippi you don't have to pay 5 per cent state sales tax on anything you buy in the state. Similarly, a merchant living on a North Carolina Cherokee Indian reservation is exempt from the state's 3 per cent sales tax.

In fiscal 1968, general sales tax collections in Connecticut amounted to $159 million; in Indiana to $322 million; in Mississippi to $136 million and in North Carolina to $216 million.

"Well, I ain't picked her out yit," Abel confessed. "I wanted to be sure of gettin' the car first."

TRAINING THE UNEMPLOYED

Recently the North American Rockwell Corporation in Los Angeles, California, established a special subsidiary to train the "hard- core unemployed" for productive jobs in private industry. This personal enterprise program has been very successful.

The director of the program is Robert Robinson, who has a space engineer on the Apollos program, an Army pilot and a first lieutenant in the Korean War. He says of the program: "motivation is good. These employees really want to produce. They want to go ahead. They don't take things for granted."

Approximately 200 employees are receiving on-the-job training. Although many of the employees have had felony arrests and are school dropouts, the turnover in the group has been less than expected, and absenteeism and tardiness is low.

In addition to job training, North American Rockwell privides remedial courses in reading, arithmetic and office practices, in which about 40% of the trainees have enrolled. The company also encourages the workers to obtain their high school diplomas.

Those who have completed their training are given the opportunity to move into job openings in other North American Rockwell divisions. The trainees may also seek employment elsewhere if they so choose.

Ralph Ruud, senior vice president of North American Rockwell, has stated that the purpose of the training program is the "help the hard- core unemployed to enter the mainstream of American society" by providing "immediate jobs with training in a plant located in or near a poverty area." The program is achieving its goal. North American Rockwell is to be congratulated for this personal enterprise solution to unemployment. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The man President Nixon has appointed to head the embattled Bureau of Mines was rejected for the same job five years ago because of an FBI report that there may have plagiarism in his doctoral thesis.

The nominee, Professor J. Richard Lucas of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, was among several candidates considered for the Bureau of Mines hot seat by the Johnson administration in 1965.

This column has learned that Lucas was at the point of being selected when the FBI report came in, containing charges based on interviews with professors that Lucas had copied part of the work on his doctoral thesis His name then was quietly dropped from consideration.

Lucas obtained his doctorate from Columbia University in 1965 with a thesis astutely challenging the notion that atomic energy was about to become the nation's main source of electric power, thus eliminating coal as a major fuel.

White House aide Harry Fleming confirmed that the charge of plagiarism appeared in the earlier FBI report, but he said a more thorough FBI investigation had persuaded the Nixon administration the charge was unfounded.

A gentle, sensitive man, Lucas is understood to have received strong support from segments of the coal industry, including the massive Island Creek Coal Company.

Coal officials have been saying privately that they hoped the rugged, pressure-packed job would go to a "soft-touch," not to a man who might enforce the tough new federal mine health and safety laws too vigorously.

CHARGE DENIED

In a telephone interivew with my associate, Brit Hume, Lucas broke down and wept when informed about the plagiarism allegation. "I think you can destroy this appointment," he said, his voice choking. "There is a career at stake here .... You've put me through an emotional crisis."

The professor said he had no idea where the plagiarism charge, which he vigorously denied, could have come from.

The soft-spoken Lucas expressed strong identification with the coal industry with which he has been associated all his life.

"The industry has many problems," he said in a voice filled with emotion, "and many people don't understand them .... We know the problems and can intuitively sense them. We have devoted a career to it."

Lucas's appointment was pushed by Virginia's new Republican governor, Linwood Holton, and Congressman Richard Poff, also a Republican, from the southwestern Virginia district where Lucas lives.

The selection was made over the opposition of Hollis Dole, the Interior Department's Assistant Secretary for Mineral Resources, who will be Lucas's immediate superior. Dole was supporting another candidate whom he felt was better qualified.

The appointment comes at the height of a raging controversy over the enforcement of the new mine health and safety law. Coal company officials have complained bitterly that the law is unreasonable and will have a disastrous effect on the industry.

But several coal-state Congressmen, notably West Virginia's Ken Hechler, have charged repeatedly that the Interior Department is deliberately dragging its feet on implementing the new law.

Lucas's appointment follows the ouster of former mines bureau chief John F. O'Leary, an exceptionally able career government man, who had earned the reputation as the first tough enforcer of mine health and safety regulations in the bureau's history.

President Nixon has tipped off intimates that sometime between June 10 and 15 he will announce to the nation that the Cambodian operation has been successfully completed and that all Americans have been withdrawn from Cambodia ahead of schedule .... Arizona's Mo Udall and Michigan's Jim O'Hara the two leading liberal candidates for House Democratic leader, have agreed privately to unite behind the one who can rally the most support from the liberal Democratic Study Group. Most Southern Democrats favor Illinois's Dan Rostenkowski, who is Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's spokesman in Washington .... The winner will succeed Oklahoma's amiable little Carl Albert who will take over Speaker John McCormack's chair. Albert has indicated to friends that he'll retire after a couple of terms. This means the Udall-O'Hara-Rostenkowski battle will probably determine whom the next long-term Speaker will be.

Secretary of State Bill Rogers has told congressional leaders privately of signs that the Kremlin is disturbed over Red China's influence with Prince Sihanouk, who heads the communist liberation movement to take over Cambodia. Rogers cited criticism of China's relationship with Sihanouk in Pravda .... Anti-war agitators have indicated that they will raise a clamor next for withdrawal of U. S. troops fromThailand and South Korea. The Nixon administration has no intention of pulling troops out of either country.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

NEW EMERGENCIES COMING:

Rebel's Rejection of 'Biggest and Best' Contract Almost Paralyzed Nation's Transport

Washington, D.C.: — Some White House account executives in charge of sundry upheavals are shockproof by this time. Some still are sensitive. These are the crises chasers with long, often bitter memories – one of whom has just come up with this requiem for a near- miss catastrophe.

Early in April this nation faced a national railroad strike. It would have meant swift paralysis. Truck terminals, waterfronts and warehouses would have been clogged. Hundreds of thousands would have been laid off. Millions on millions of dollars would have been lost. Some 600,000 communters would have choked the highways as they hit the roads in car pools.

This emergency sprang from the refusal of less than 3,000 sheet metal union workers to ratify a contract already backed by three other rail shopcraft unions. Refusal of this handful to go along meant rejection because there had to be a unanimous vote.

Soon everybody got a piece of the action. Deadline for paralysis was April 11. Everybody got on the phone– President Nixon, and assistant president John Ehrlichman, Secretary of Labor George Shultz, labor prexy George Meany, et al. The pressure was terrific. But the sheet metal union's rail section leaders refused to budge.

Somewhere down the line, the union's general vice president in charge of rails, J. W. (Wally) O'Brien, said, "I'd see them in hell before I see one composite mechanic." This was a reference to the proposed contract which gave the railroads the right to call on other machine craft union members in outlying rail shops instead of always waiting for an available sheet metal worker to cut a wire or seal a pipe. The railroads could do this only where incidental work was involved.

So rather than go to hell, Congress began considering ending the crisis simply by passing a special law putting the already virtually unanimous contract into effect by fiat.

Mr. O'Brien, objecting to this proposal by President Nixon shouted:

"Never in the history of this country, including actions in time of war, has involuntary service of working men been enforced with the arbitrary power of government. Our entire craft is imperiled. The railroads could decimate us, and my men know it. We have been lied to, cheated, and double- crossed. We are tired of it, and we will not lie down passively and see the destruction of our union."

He added that he "would not preside over the rape of this union."

He said the law would make "indentured servants" of his union's rail division members.

The nation sweated – especially the commuters and shippers of essential and often perishable material and produce.

The law was passed. What happened?

Nothing. The union is prospering. Few if any sheet metal workers have been laid off. Nobody has been enslaved. More important in this requiem is the report of a recent meeting of the rail section of the big and influential 800,000 - member International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), AFL- CIO. It is one of the four rail shop unions involved. This session was addressed by the still little - known "now generation" labor chief, its 51- year- old president, Charles Pillard, who took office in 1968.

This contract which caused such a stir and moved Congress to settle the crisis, thereby setting a precedent so distasteful to all labor, was described as "the biggest and best" wage package ever negotiated on the railroads.

And it was Charley Pillard, himself the son of a rail man, who so characterized it.

And his vice president, Frank Gladney, who is in charge of the IBEW's rail membership section, reported to the delegates that the settlement was the "best ever" on the railroads. And Mr. Gladney was talking to his peers, the 100 general chairmen (presidents) and delegates of IBEW railroad lodges (locals). They know their business. Mr. Gladney knows his. He was the union's chief negotiator during the 17- month contract battle. He was Wally O'Brien's counterpart.

The contract certainly is the best yet. It raises wages of 47,000 rail shop workers by at least $75 million over a short period. And this is understatement.

No rail union has been raped, razed or ruined. Yet the President and White House and the national labor chiefs could find no solution for the power of a handful of strategically placed men.

There are many such crises just around the corner. The Congress has Mr. Nixon's and Mr. Shultz's proposals for some sort of binding arbitration in emergency strike "situations." Of course the labor movement is battling the White House proposals.

But the President wants some answers. He don't want two crises for every solution. He is deeply concerned with the government's own labor relations with its own employes. The other week, this nation came to within a few union votes of another postal strike. There are rumblings in other departments. The fever spreads from the "civilian" front to the federal service. Several times now in the early months of 1970 this nation has had some of its essential services paralyzed, snarled or threatened. There should be a summit conference to take the leadership in revising and restating labor laws. We can do without the Wally O'Briens saying he'll see the Congress in hell first just to protect some narrow interests.

Mark these words. There are more emergency crises coming.

Parents Who Lose One Child Because of Another Should Be Wary

Dear Ann Landers: I can't stop thinking about that little boy who accidentally shot his sister while playing with the father's gun.

Let us pray the child's parents don't make the same mistake my husband's parents made under similar circumstances. He, too, accidentally killed his sister, His grief- stricken mother and father did everything under the sun to lessen the boy's feelings of guilt. They showered him with attention and gifts and catered to his every whim. The results were disastrous. He grew up to be selfish, inconsiderate, wildiy egocentric --- completely without concern for others.

The death of a child is a tragedy. But the ruination of a beautiful, bright, promising youngster is equally tragic. The best way to recover from a death in the family is to emerge from the valley of grief as rapidly as possible and do something constructive for the living. Sometimes professional guidance is needed.

I hope the parents of the dead child will stop blaming themselves and treat the surviving youngster just as they would have had the tragedy not occurred. The inclination to be too permissive or excessively over- protective can be disastrous. I know because I am living with it. -- Wichita Wife

Dear Reader: Thank you for an excellent letter. And now may I add a word? The surviving child sometimes attempts to take advantage of grieving parents. Parents should be alert to such maneuvering and not permit it.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a ridiculous complaint and I know it but a situation exists in our office that is embarrassing to say the least.

A girl I work with has a fantastic wardrobe. She could go for a month and a half without wearing the same dress twice. I'm sure she has a thing about not repeating outfits and in order to show up in a different outfit every day she has taken to wearing her cocktail dresses. Some of these party numbers are backless and slashed to the navel. When she bends down to put the mail in the bottom slots about 20 guys rush over to "help."

Yesterday she wore a sequined mini that looked like a skating costume. I'm sure it glows at night. The office errand runner (age 17) swallowed his chewing gum when he saw her. Several of us girls think she is cheapenin the office. Should somebody say something? — Saving It For My Husband

Dear Saving: The office manager is the one who should "say something" but obviously he likes what he sees, and from your description, he sees plenty.

It would do no good to speak to the girl. She knows what she is doing and is enjoying it immensely.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I got into a frank discussion with another couple last night. Today my wife isn't speaking to me. This question came up: Would any of us remarry if something should happen to our mates? The others all said they would not remarry. I said I would. My wife claims I don't love her and that I humiliated her in front of our friends. What do you say? -- Ceiling Zero

Dear Zero: Widows and widowers who have had happy marriages tend to remarry. It is a compliment rather than an insult to the deceased partner. Your wife should be flattered, not hurt.

JUDY BOES, Consumer Food Specialist for Missouri Department of Agriculture

Pollution, cancer, over-population, drugs: these are a few of the villains haunting the news media and our minds today. Another problem many are concerned with is the intrusion of unwholesome and adultered meat and meat products into the market. Missouri has answered this problem.

Sixty years ago a book was written by Upton Sinclair. He called it THE JUNGLE and it described in detail, some of the conditions that existed in the meat industry. THE JUNGLE provided a catalyst which helped bring about the Meat Inspection Act of 1907. However, the act only covered meat that crossed state lines. That left a gap-- a gap of about 8 3/4 billion pounds of uninspected meat. That's enough meat to feed 50 million people. In that amount there is a certain percentage of meat from animals which died in transit to the market or animals that were dying, diseased or disabled.

The gap had to be filled and, with the "wave" of "consumerism" sweeping the country, the pace was quickened. Consumers could no longer depend on the friendly neighborhood butcher. Grocery stores turned into large impersonal giants where complaints were voiced to a window behind which stood a blank- expressioned wage earner who said the matter of the rancid purchase would be taken care of in a few weeks or so. The consumer had very little idea who processed the meat, under what conditions it was processed, or, if it was properly labeled as to the actual ingredients and weight.

Businesses, politicians, the White House, agencies at federal, state and local levels, private groups of many kinds, and individuals eagerly mounted the "wave." Why? Some were genuninely interested in giving the consumer what he paid for. Others used it as a means of attaining public office or advancement of business or... Nothing before has quite equaled this rush to respond to the needs, desires and grievances of the buying public.

In 1967, President Johnson signed a bill which prompted the obliteration of those few individuals who offended the integrity of the rest of the meat industry. From this came the Meat Inspection Program of the Missouri Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 200 food inspectors and veterinarians are working on full or part- time basis throughout the state. These men are working to assure the consumer that when he sees the Missouri Department of Agriculture legend of approval or the United States Department of Agriculture legend, he is getting exactly what he paid for.

The inspection legend means the meat was processed under maximum sanitation and highly regulated techniques. This is the health inspection segment of the Meat Inspection Program. The entire Meat Inspection Program, however, encompasses checking the animal at all stages-- ante mortem, post mortem, processing and labeling.

Other activities include strict labeling requirements. The label of a federal or state inspected product will correctly state the name of the product and the name and address of the manufacturer. Ingredients will be listed according to predominance, listing the highest quantity foodstuff first. The net weight stated on the package is correct. If the product is to be kept refrigerated that, too, will be stated on the label.

Another task undertaken by the Meat Inspection Program is the Contract Acceptance Service. This service assures specificatins are meet on state contracts as to wholesomeness and quality for state institutions.

Meat inspection regulations were not set down for the consumer only. The livestock producers and processors are protected against unfair market competition involving unwholesome, adulterated, or misbranded meat and meat food products. Deceptive packaging is also controlled for their protection.

So much for business. It's time to roll out the grill and send the aroma of top- notch Missouri steaks throughout the neighborhood. It's May Beef Month!!! Mom, you should make a resolution for this month – a resolution to acquaint your family with at least two new beef dishes. You can use two new beef cuts or try new twists on familiar cuts. Try adding grated cheddar cheese to meat balls. Or, French fry strips of liver and serve with a dip or barbecue sauce. Here's a bright new idea for beef blade pot-roast. Gently simmer it with canned beef consomme, then serve with a zesty tomato gravy, revealing ripe olive slices and sour cream.

Canalou 4-H Clovers

Members of the Foods I project, a group from the Canalou 4-H Clovers Club, enjoyed an afternoon picnic and play activities at the home of their leader, Mrs. Peter Myers. The girls, assisted by their Junior leader, Virgie Walton planned and prepared their picnic meal.

During the ten project sessions these girls have visited a grocery store, studied food nutrition and cleanliness, demonstrated cooking and measuring procedures, and practiced safety in cooking.

The first year foods project is designed especially for the younger boy or girl who has little or no experience in cooking. These girls, ranging in age from 6 to 8 years old, have completed the basic requirements; making and serving two fruit and milk drinks, making and freezing two kinds of cookies and sandwiches, preparing two relish trays of both raw and cooked vegetables, and properly setting a table. To finalize the activity, the girls will be in charge of refreshments at the July meeting of the Canalou Women's Extension Club.

Canalou 4-H Clovers Club offers twenty- two different project fields to their eighty-two members. Each member is guided into choosing the project or projects best suited to his or her experience, abilities, and interests.

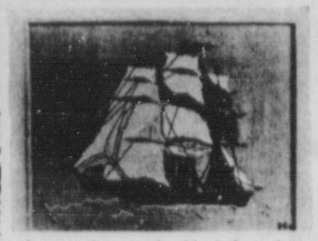
SAIL AWAY in a square-rigged ship, if only in your dreams. Oh salts and landlubbers alike will be enthralled with this sea worthy wall hanging. Raise anchor and head for the open sea.



Stitchery Trip

It's an adventure in embroidery. To set off on your stitchery trip, you will need a 19½"x25½" piece of burlap for the background. The ship design has to be enlarged on tracing paper before transferring it to the background fabric. The embroidery is done with assorted shades of worsted yarn, plus black fingering-weight yarn.

Handsome Hanging

Though the pattern appears detailed, it is really quick and easy to do. Almost the entire ship is done in couching, with a few chain stitch details. Finished and framed, this embroidered ship picture can be handsomely hung in a masculine room. Ruby In 11th Indy 500

By LLOYD RUBY

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Well, here we are for the 11th time at the old Brickyard. In spite of some things that shouldn't happen to anyone, we're in the 500 field-starting 25th in a field of 33 cars.

But if my luck gets as good as it's been bad, I'm sure nobody'll b· able to race with me race day.

To start with, we ran 167 miles an hour the first time we went on the race track, May 4. But from then until last Saturday, everything seemed to go backwards instead of forwards.

I blew an engine on Mother's Day. I mean it scattered everywhere. Gene White, my car owner, called his wife and told her old Rube had just blown her Mother's Day present.

We kept having engine problems for the next week. Dave Laycock, my chief mechanic, and the whole crew went four days and nights without any sleep. By the first day of qualiffying, we figured they had found the problem.

I went out that Saturday and put together three practice laps at better than 171 miles an hour. We felt real good about our chances for the pole position.

Of course, our luck in the draw for a qualifying position had to be typical of the whole week - we drew the very last one, 50th position.

We got in line to qualify and that's right where we stayed. We were four cars back when the rain drenched our hopes for that day.

Sunday morning of that first qualifying weekend, the weather changed completely. It had been real cool Saturday, but Sunday I could have fried an egg on the straightaway. I fried a piston instead. That forced us to go to our backup car. I ran laps above 169, so we again decided to qualify and I got back in line.

At Indy, you get three warmup laps prior to a qualifying run. If you're going to make an attempt, you have to hold up your hand on the third lap. I held up my hand the third time by the clock.

But there was that Ruby luck again. I had a lap of better than 168 but the officials didn't see my hand. It made me mad as hell. Everybody else on pit road saw my hand.

They sent me right back out and I ran three laps above 168. Had I been credited with that first lap, I'd have been in the field. As it turned out, the fourth lap ended half way down the back stretch when the engine seized. I knew then my chances of making the field the first weekend were just about finished.

We only had one engine left and it was a weak one. The crew bolted it in my car and I was back on he track at 5 o'clock for another try. That one didn't last but a lap and a helf. The engine blew!

With all this, you'd think my troubles would be over but Dave got on his motorcycle and the engine blew on his way home. Bob Tattersall, the national midget champion who works with us during May, was entered in a sprint car race that Sunday night. He set a quick time—then his engine blew.

Then, Monday, I went to play golf with some friends. We had a sixsome, three golf carts. Two of the gold carts ran out of power before we finished. My luck just had to get better.

But Friday afternoon, I broke a rear end during a practice run. That little fracture overrevved the engine and I'll be danged if it didn't blow, too, the sixth one of the month.

By Saturday, I just wanted to qualify, period. I didn't care how fast, no headlines, no fuss, just get in the field, anywhere. Then, during practice, Al Loquasto lost control and spun right in front of me. There it was ... I thought it was all over. I missed him by about six inches!

When I got back to the pits, I told Gene, DAve and Bill Daniels, our sponsor, that our luck had changed. We qualified at 168.895 and I don't guess there's ever been a happier crew.

You con't believe luck can change? Well, Daniels also owns the Los Angeles Stars in the ABA. They stayed alive in their playoffs with the Indianapolis Pacers that Saturday afternoon, too.

Like I said, if our luck is as good on race day as it's been bad all month, we're bound to win the race. No doubt about that!

Three Former Champs Among 33 Set for Saturday's Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Three former winners will lead one of the best-balanced fields in history into Saturday's 54th 500-mile auto race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The 33-car lineup, rounded off in the final 10-mile qualifications Sunday, averaged a record 167.139 miles per hour. The old mark was 166.295 last year.

The qualifying speeds ranged from 170.221 by Al Unser, who won the pole position May 16, to 165.373 by slowest qualifer Sammy Sessions. The 1969 field's spread was 170.568 to 160.851.

Unser is not a former winner but the favorite of many Speedway veterans in his fifth attempt. Al's brother Bobby, the 1968, winner, also is in the lineup along with three-time winner A. J. Foyt Jr., and last year's winner, Mario Andretti, who set the race record of 156.867.

Veterans almost crowded newcomers out of the field. Only four rookies made the program, the smallest number since 1960.

Foyt, with 12 Indianapolis starts behind him, is approached in Speedway experience only by Lloyd Ruby, starting for the 11 time, and Dan Gurney, Jim McElreath and Roger McCluskey, for the ninth time. Bobby Unser will start for the eighth time.

No really exotic cars made the program, although there are innovations in the British - built Brabhams and McLarens and the made-in-Germany McNamara. Eighteen of the cars are powered by turbocharged four-cylinder Offenhausers, 15 by turbocharged eight-cylinder Fords.

Ruby and Jack Brabham, native of Australia and three-time world road racing champion, rated among the top contenders qualified over the weekend, along with the second Bill Vukovich, whose father won the big race twice.

Vukovich, unable to get his original Edmunds Offenhauser up to competitive speed, jumped into a Brabham - Offy and made the line — up with speed to spare. Ruby also qualified solidly after a string of six straight engine failures in the last three weeks.

McElreath was the only driver able to "bump" an earlier qualifier and squeeze into the line-up in Sunday's final session. He joined Foyt's four-car team, averaged 166.821 in his Coyote-Ford, and eliminated rookie Kevin Barlett of Australia. McElreath himself had been bumped by Brabham Saturday.

The three weeks of practice and the time trials for the Memorial Day race were run off without a fatality at the 61-year-old racing plant where 52 persons have been killed.

There were 12 accidents in this year's 500 preliminaries but only New Zealander Denis Hulme, former world champion, was injured. He suffered sever burns on the hands and feet when leaking fuel caught fire in his cockpit May 10.

Three cars spun into the wall in the final qualifying and practice sessions, all of them driven by men who have never made the 500 line-up. None of the three, Al Loquasto, Jigger Sirois and Tony Adamowicz, was hurt.

Adamowicz was among drivers who completed qualifying runs but failed to hold their positions when the 33 best speeds were posted for the line-up. Others were rookies Steve Krisiloff and Bentley Warren.

Third In a Weekly Series On Hitting

MUSIAL SAYS:

Learn To Hit To Other Field

By STAN MUSIAL
SEnior Vice President
Of St. Louis Cardinals
Written for AP Newsfeatures

People used to say I stood at the plate looking like a coiled rattler and peeked around the corner of a building at the pitcher. To me it was a comfortable stance and I fell into it anturally.

My advice to youngsters is to take a comfortable stance. Be yourself and don't try to copy anyone. To hit well you must feel natural at the plate.

Even the home run should come naturally. Al! you have to do is make the fat part of the bat meet the pitched ball. Most home runs come when you don't expect to hit them. If you hit a lot of line drives some of them will become home runs.

One of the things that helped me compile good batting averages was the fact that I learned to hit the ball to the opposite field. To be a good hitter you must be able to do this.

For instance, I batted left handed and when a southpaw pitched he often would keep the ball over the outside part of the plate. I'd wait on the pitch, then go with it to left field. That's a big advantage for a left-handed batter because as he's running the bases he can see whether the left fielder has played the ball properly.

When the pitch is inside that's the time to pull the ball.

You must always be aggressive as a hitter and you must always try to hit strikes unless you have orders to take the pitch. If you don't swing at good strikes the pitcher has you where he wants you and the first thing you know you will be swinging at his pitch.

For this story I was asked what pitch or pitchers gave me the most trouble during my 23 years with the St. Louis Cardinals. The knuckleball pitcher was always tough on me. You can't slug against a knuckleball. All you can do is take a good level swing and meet the ball as squarely as possible.

Hoyt Wilhelm (47), now with the Atlanta Braves, made a specialty with the knuckleball. He gripped it with the tips of his first two fingers and it's a good thing there weren't too many of them around when I was playing.

Missouri Pro's Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Royals won and the St. Louis Cardinals lost, both by the score of 6-5 in the 10th inning, in Sunday's baseball games, the Royals at Kansas City and the Cards at Philadelphia.

And the coincidences didn't end there.

Bob Taylor's two-run pinch single with the bases loaded in the 10th gave the Royals the edge over the Milwaukee Brewers.

A bases-loaded single in the 10th by another Taylor, Tony, capped a Phills comeback over the Cards.

Philadelphia tied the game at five-all on a two-run homer by Larry Hisle with two out in the ninth, setting the state for the clincher off St. Louis reliever Chuck Taylor in the 10th.

The Cards went into the ninth with a 4-3 lead on two bases - loaded walks in a four-run fourth inning. Cookie Rojas, Joe Torre and Carl Taylor singled acrosss one run in the fourth and a walk to Julian Javier sent Phils' starter Chris Short to the showers.

Reliever Bill Wilson then walked Phil Gagliano and DAl Maxvill, forcing in two more runs, and the fourth scored on a ground out.

The Brewers took a 5-4 lead over the Royals when Joe Keough lost Tommy Harper's fly ball in the sun in Milwaukee's half of the 10th, and it went for a triple. Ted Kubiak then singled Harper home, snapping a 4-4 tie.

Keough, with one out in the bottom of the 10th, beat out an infield hit. Tow walks filled the bases and Taylor singled off reliever John O'Donoghue's first pitch.

The Chicago White Sox are at Kansas City tonight, with Jerry Crider, 1-0, pitching for the Sox and DAve Morehead, 1-1, for the Royals.

St. Louis is idle today, and opens a three-game set with the Mets at New York starting Tuesday night.

Three-Year Baseball Agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — A new three-year agreement between owners and players has the green light from Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Last week, negotiating commitees for both sides reached a "basic agreement subject to retaification by the players and owners," Miller said Sunday.

He said he would recommend ratification by the players and voting would be completed within a week.

"I cannot say anything more at this point," he added.

But at least one player representative was happy about the tentative agreement. Dal Maxvill of St. Louis said Sunday he was satisfied and thought it would be approved by the players.

Maxville said under the agreement a player cut during spring training would get 30 days pay and one whose employment terminated during the season would get 60 days pay and that the players would receive 60 per cent, instead of 50, from the proceeds of the first three playoff games other than the World Series.

John Gaherin, the owners' representative, was unavailable for comment.

The players voted 505-89 serveral weeds ago to reject a new pact. Miller had not recommended ratification of that agreement.

Tryouts Tonight

American Legion tryouts will be held at 7 p.m. tonight at VFW Stadium. This is for boys 16 through 19 from any county in Southeast Missouri.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Organized thoroughbred racing began at the present site of Pimlico race course on Oct. 25, 1870.

However, the Maryland Jockey Club, which operates the track, is 227 years old. It was founded in 1743 at Annapolis.

Burlison Reaffirms Opposition To Gun Control Legislation

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Addressing the Ozark Sportsman's Club at Alton, Missouri, on Sunday afternoon United States Representative Bill D. Burlison said it was highly unlikely that further gun control legislation would be enacted. In fact, he said, the law as passed in 1968 had been modified so as to delete the requirement for shotgun and rifle ammunition registration. Burlison said he supported this amendment and that his earlier expressed opposition to gun control legislation had not waivered.

The Congressman pointed out that restrictive firearms laws do not necessarily mean low crime rates. In fact, as he indicated by statistics, quite the contrary may be true.

Mr. Burlison advocated more stringent application of the criminal laws for those offenses in which dangerous weapons are used.

Following completion of their job training at mid-May, the students participated in a one-week agricultural business seminar at the college, preparatory to final examinations and the second annual commencement of the college.

The course in Agricultural Business Technology was established two years ago with Kenneth Howard as instructor in charge. The purpose of the course, as outlined in the original plan drafted by Howard, is to train a limited number of students for full-time employment in the grain, seed, feed, fertilizer, chemical and other farm-related businesses.

The program involves 20 credit hours of general academic studies and 56 credit hours of classroom instruction, technical laboratory experience, and one-the-job work experience in a two-year course leading to an Associate in Applied Science Degree.

Co-operating employers assisted in organizing the course in the proper sequence so the work experience period for the students coincided with the busy season of the agri-business establishments in Southeast Missouri.

A second instructor joined the faculty last year. He is Fred Credille, who has had wide experience in agricultural business operations. Howard, who started the course and continues as its supervising instructor, was for many years vocational agriculture instructor at Qulin High School, and has had wide experience in agriculture and related businesses.

Chaplain Casey Named Army Chaplain of 1970

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Chaplain (Col.) George T. Casey was named Chaplain of the Year 1970 by the Reserve Officers Association at its mid-winter conference in Washington, D.C.

A native of Pittston, Pa., Chaplain Casey is stationed at Ft. George G. Meade, Md., where he serves as president of the U.S. Army Chaplain Board.

Chaplain Casey

Chaplain Casey began his military career during World War II, serving 18 months in the Pacific as a chaplain with the 25th Infantry Division. During the Korean War he spent 13 months with combat troops.

Chaplain Casey has also served as chief of plans and operations of the Army Chaplain Division in Europe; director and comptroller of the Army Chaplain School, Ft. Hamilton, N.Y.; and as director of plans, programs and policies of the Corps of Chaplains in the Office of the Chief of Chaplains.

In 1961, during a European tour, he was appointed by the late Francis Cardinal Spellman an assistant military vicar with the authority of a vicar general in the Military Diocese of Europe.

In December 1962, the late Pope John XXIII elevated him to domestic prelate with the title monsignor.

The home of Theodore Slack on North Ranney is about ready for occupancy. It is one of the prettiest in the city. This gives Slack four pretty houses in a row and no better kept places can be found in town. Drive by and see them, then resolve to improve your grounds as are these.

Roy V. Ellise has staked the lot just to the north of his home for a five- room modern cottage. The plans call for a very attractive house and will be ready for occupancy this fall.

If You Were the Judge

Deceit Must Occur Before Marriage

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Charley stood absolutely bewildered before a minister as his newly acquired bride suddenly disappeared down the aisle. While he had married her for better or for worse, he soon discovered that it wasn't for long. As soon as the minister had pronounced them one, she immediately subtracted her one-half and made a beeline for her parents' home.

Thereafter, she refused to have anything to do with the open-mouthed bridegroom. In fact, she didn't even take the trouble to appear in court when Charley sued to annul the marriage on the grounds of fraud.

"She tricked and deceived me," he tearfully complained in court. "It doesn't take a Houdini to figure out that she never intended to be married to me. I paid two bucks, but I didn't get a bride."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant the brideless groom an annulment?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that there was no proof that Charley's "bride" had acted in bad faith in getting married. To annul a marriage for fraud, noted the judge, there must be deceit prior to the marriage. And, in this case, he concluded, there was no evidence of such deceit. Charley's bride could have changed her mind about being married AFTER the wedding.

Red Cross Fund Campaign Falters

NEW MADRID — Less than 50 per cent of the $5,000 goal has been collected in the annual fund drive of the New Madrid county Red Cross according to Mrs. Howard Crisler, campaign chairman.

Mrs. Crisler reports $2,232.37 has been collected. All workers will make a final report by June 15.

In some communities, the chapter was unable to get volunteer solicitors. Mrs. Crisler urged person who would like to give to the fund drive to mail contributions to New Madrid County Chapter, American Red Cross, New Madrid.

Because of a shortage of chapter funds, Mrs. Crisler said, some servicemen seeking aid had to be referred to Blytheville and Memphis.

She said the chapter weekly receives requests for aid, many from servicemen and their families.

Primary function of the county chapter is to provide welfare and personal services to members of the Armed Forces and their families. Some of these services include counseling on personal and family problems, financial assistance in emergencies, assisting with communications between servicemen and their families, obtaining reports on home conditions needed in considering discharge and leave, and providing information on state federal benefits.

Community chairman reports include Canalou, Mrs. Nelson Lumsden, $139.50, Kewanee, Mrs. Mildred Brotherton, $106; Tallapoosa, Mrs. Cecil Polsgrove, $20; Catron, Mrs. Rance Perkins, $67; Highway 61, Tom Moore, $71; Lilbourn, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nesselrodt, $201.60; Conran, Mrs. Sam Pikey, $43.61; Portageville, Mrs. Joseph McCrate, $700 (not completed); Southwestern Bell Telephone, $50; New Madrid, $700 and Gideon, $75, both through Community Fund.

Reports have not been received from East Prairie, star route; Matthews. Parma, Airline Road, Marston and Morehouse.

Scott City Man Faces Death Charge

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A Scott City man, charged on a federal warrant with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in connection with the fatal stabbing of a Cape Girardeau man in a bar here Tuesday, has surrendered to Joplin police and was being returned to Cape County Thursday.

Leroy Clyde Gibson, formerly of Cape Girardeau, who was named in the warrant, will face second- degree murder charges in Cape County in connection with the stabbing of Phinias Wesley Rollman Jr., following an argument in a Good Hope tavern. Rollman, 46 years old, of 1975 Bend Road, died four hours after the stabbing occurred.

J. Wallace LaPrade, special agent in charge of the FBI in St. Louis, said Gibson's wife was informed Wednesday by FBI agents in Kansas City that her husband was being sought for unlawful flight. He said she contacted Gibson, who turned himself in Wednesday morning.

Cape County Prosecuting Attorney A. J. Seier had issued a warrant charging Gibson with second- degree murder Tuesday morning. Gibson left town and was believed to be in the Kansas City area Wednesday, city police said.

Highlights and Sidelights from Our State Capitol

JEFFERSON CITY — For several weeks now, both the House and Senate Appropriations committees have listened to anguished state agencies plead for more money for the coming fiscal year.

And it is becoming increasingly evident that there just is not enough money to go around.

Only last week, a University of Missouri task force told the Senate Appropriations Committee the state will have about the same amount of money for the coming fiscal year as originally estimated in Gov. Warren E. Heanres austerity budget.

At the same time, the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, an independent taxpayer's group, told the Senate committee it could expect only $1.4 million more in general revenue funds than the budget called for.

Both groups prepared the reports at the request of the committee which asked last month, "How much can the state reasonably expect to have in its general revenue fund for the fiscal year 1970-71?"

Hearnes estimated the available general revenue would reach $609.7 million. The University put the figure at $609 million and the Expenditure Survey pegged it as $611.7 million.

University president John C. Weaver last month pleaded before the House and Senate committees for increased funds to maintain a "standstill" operation during the fiscal year beginning July 1. The University had requested $103.5 million in state funds, but the governor cut the figure to $80.7 million.

It seems unlikely now that the University or any state agency will receive any more funds than recommended in the governor's budget.

Commenting on the new estimates, Senate Appropriations Committee chairman T. D. McNeal (D-St. Louis) said: "It seems clear to me that the public schools will not receive the $234 million of state funds promised this year and will have no chance -- within a balanced budget or otherwise — of being funded at the currently promised level next year unless a fourth distribution of cigarette tax funds is legalized."

McNeal has asked his committee to help him get legislation to amend present statutes to provide a fourth destribution of school aid funds from cigarette tax money.

In action on major fiscal bills earlier this month, the House put the state an estimated $4 million to $20 million in the red, depending on how the figures are interpreted.

McNeal is worried that the budget will be unbalanced. "We are not permitted constitutionally to go into deficit spending. It would be a vain thing to appropriate money we know isn't there," he said. McNeal hopes the Senate will trim some of the additions to fiscal bills made by the House in its sessions over the past three weeks.

Sen. Earl Blackwell (D-Hillsboro) has estimated the state will have $689.30 million in general revenue funds for the coming fiscal year. His figure is nearly $80 million over the estimates of the governor, the University and the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

McNeal rejects Blackwell's figures. He claims the State Ways and Means Committee has been "unable to uncover a single dime in hidden money" above and beyond the governor's estimates and he predicts the state will need an additional $200 million a year within the next two years.

Gov. Heanres based his $609.7 million revenue figure on an assumption that the state's revenue would increase by 7.5 per cent in the next year. The University and the Expenditure Survey figures were based on a growth assumption of 8.7 per cent, but their predicted dollar and cents figure differed little.

The University study was prepared by Professor Robert W. Patterson of the Columbia campus, and representatives from the University's other thee campuses. The report blames the current economic crisis on inflation, partly caused by the war in Southeast Asia:

"We are now entering the most difficult period in the fight against inflation. Monetary and fiscal authorities must walk a narrow path between excessive tightness which could turn the economy into a recession, and premature easing which might cause arresumption of inflationary tendencies," the report said.

The report continued: "The increasing likeliness that U. S. involvement in Asia may be nearing its end raises the prospect that a balanced budget may be achieved in 1971-72."

The Expenditure Survey reported sales tax receipts were running $10 million below the estimate for the current fiscal year. The cigarette tax yield, expected to alleviate many state agencies' financial problems, also has been less than expected, the study indicated.

Both the University and the Expenditure Survey studies suggest that new legislation is needed to fund the school foundation program in light of declining tax receipts.

If the citizens and voters want Missouri's programs to survive, it seems that they may wish to take the next general election more seriously than ever.

Housing Project Strikes Obstacle

CHARLESTON — Charleston's Public Housing Authority has struck a snag in its effort to develop 80 new units of new low incoming housing and 40 units of housing for the elderly under federal houng programs.

City Manager Richard Martin said the Authority has succeeded in securing options on about three acres of land behind the Armory for construction of the 40 units for the elderly.

However, he said, an effort to purchase 10 acres of land in Kimes Addition for the low income units was not successful because the owner, Charles Telker, refused to sell the site for the $25,000 figure approved by federal appraisers.

Mr. Martin said condemnation is not permitted under the federal rules until the local agency has secured options on at least 50 per cent of the land needed for a proposed project. Since the agency has option on only three of 13 acres of proposed development ground, Mr. Martin continued, condemnation proceedings cannot be initiated to purchase the Telker property.

Therefore, the city manager said, the Housing Authority has begun all over in its efforts to find a site for the project. A possible location has been located, but the entire appraisal procedure must be followed again, new architectural drawings must be made on the new site, and the site must be approved by federal inspectors. All of this, Mr. Martin said, will delay the possible start of construction until next fall, and most likely until the Spring of 1971.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, May 25, the 145th day of 1970. There are 220 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1787, delegates to the Constitutional Convention held their first regular session in Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

On this date:

In 1803, the American poet and essayist, Ralph Waldo Emerson, was born in Boston.

In 1836, Rep. John Quincy Adams opposed the annexation of Texas in a speech in the House.

In 1862, Confederate troops under Gen. Stonewall Jackson defeated a Union force in the Civil War battle of Winchester, Va.

In 1944, in World War II, the Anzio beachhead in Italy was linked with the allied front.

In 1965, more than 100 persons were killed in tornadoes which touched down in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Missouri.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy asked the nation to strive to send Americans to the moon "before this decade is out."

Ten years ago--President Dwight D. Eisenhower made a broadcast report to the nation about the U2 reconnaissance flight over the Soviet Union and the collapse of a Big Four summit meeting.

Five years ago--A crisis developed in the South Vietnam government over appointment of ministers by Premier Phan Huy Quat. One year ago--The Norwegian adventurer, Thor Heyerdahl, set sail from Morocco in a papyrus reed boat to test a theory that Egyptians sailed to Central America 3,000 years ago.
